Coupa Software Incorporated	02/23/2023	Management	1	Yes	Approve Merger Agreement	For	For	For	For	The merger consideration represents a 60.1 percent discount to COUP's 52-week high, a 78.1 percent discount to COUP's all-time high, and a 14x discount to COUP's EV/NTM sales multiple a year before announcement. Although these discounts to recent value are concerning, market dynamics suggest that past trading levels may not be an appropriate indicator for COUP's future value. In addition, the offer does not appear opportunistic (relative to COUP's valuation over the last year), and there is downside risk evidenced by significant outperformance relative to the index, which could be compounded by operational headwinds impacting revenue growth and free cash flow margins over the next two years. Moreover, the sales process appears thorough, with competitive tension and public media speculation, and there has been no public opposition to the transaction since announcement, despite activism in the stock by two shareholders during the sale process. On balance, support FOR the proposed transaction is warranted.

CSX Corporation	05/10/2023	Management	13	Yes	Advisory Vote to Ratify Named Executive Officers' Compensation	For	For	For	For	A vote FOR this proposal is warranted. Following last year's low say-on-pay vote, the company contacted a substantial portion of its shareholders, disclosed details of those engagement efforts, and made several meaningful changes to the compensation program to address concerns. In addition, annual incentives were primarily determined by pre-set objective metrics, with clear disclosure of targets, per-metric weights, and actual results. Further, the committee did not apply discretionary adjustments, which was a noted shareholder concern, aligning payouts with quantifiable metrics. Moreover, half of long-term incentives were performance conditioned and measured over a multi-year period, and the percentage of PSUs will be increased in FY23.

DENTSPLY SIRONA Inc.	05/24/2023	Management	13	Yes	Advisory Vote to Ratify Named Executive Officers' Compensation	For	For	For	For	A vote FOR this proposal is warranted, with caution. The company granted several entirely time-based one-time equity awards during the year in review, including to the new CEO and it is not clear what percentage of the new CEO's FY23 equity award will be performance-conditioned. Furthermore, the compensation committee used its discretion to increase annual incentive payouts despite below threshold performance, although final payouts were still awarded well below target. Despite these concerns, previous PRSUs awards were not earned as performance was achieved below threshold and CEO pay and company performance are reasonably aligned during the year in review.

Although a number of positive features are noted in the annual pay program, the company made a number of problematic grants to new executives amid significant executive transition. The new CEO received a large time-vested equity grant upon appointment which merely utilizes a one-year vesting period. The new CEO also received a much larger performance equity grant that, although appears to utilize rigorous performance criteria, is significant in size, contributing to the $128 million in equity he received in FY23 (Public Fund Advisory Services calculations). Other new NEOs also received significant new-hire awards, though these consist entirely of time-vested equity that also utilize a relatively short vesting period. These other NEOs, on top of new-hire awards, also received retention awards in FY23, to which the proxy provides no disclosure into why retention grants to newly-hired NEOs would be necessary.

Dun & Bradstreet Holdings, Inc.	06/15/2023	Management	11	Yes	Advisory Vote to Ratify Named Executive Officers' Compensation	For	Against	Against	Against	A vote AGAINST this proposal is warranted in light of an unmitigated pay-for-performance misalignment. Although the annual incentive program is sufficiently tied to rigorous objective performance criteria, there are significant concerns with the magnitude and structure of the long-term incentives. Specifically, retention grants to the NEOs were outsized and, in addition the NEOs' annual LTI grants for FY22, significantly elevated pay for four of the five NEOs, including the CEO. Further, although FY22 equity grants were entirely tied to performance conditions, the performance shares utilized a short one year period and the option grant share price hurdle does not require sustained performance.

Despite not receiving an annual incentive payout, a pay-for-performance misalignment was identified, largely because of an increase in the CEO's equity award value. Equity grants remained majority time-based, per Public Fund Advisory Services' valuation, and the CEO received a larger grant, both as a dollar value and as a number of shares/options, than in the prior year. Lastly, the committee made a sizable, time-based stock grant to another NEO for the second consecutive year.

Edison International	04/27/2023	Management	14	Yes	Advisory Vote to Ratify Named Executive Officers' Compensation	For	For	For	For	A vote FOR this proposal is warranted. CEO pay declined year-over-year and the committee incorporated additional performance equity into the program, bringing total LTI grants to half performance-based shares. While certain goal rigor concerns remain, including a relative TSR metric targeting merely median performance, vesting outcomes were reasonable for the year in review. Short-term incentives were based on a primarily objective scorecard, although investors would benefit from additional disclosure of threshold and maximum goals for most metrics.

Element Solutions Inc	06/06/2023	Management	9	Yes	Advisory Vote to Ratify Named Executive Officers' Compensation	For	Against	Against	Against	A vote AGAINST this proposal is warranted. Although annual and long-term incentives are predominantly based on pre-set, objective performance metrics, the committee made discretionary adjustments to allow for annual incentive payouts that otherwise would have been forfeited. Additionally, the committee granted an additional special equity award upon the vesting of the special award granted in FY19. Investors generally expect for special awards to be used sparingly, and the magnitude of the CEO's special award in FY22 was excessive. In addition, the company lacks risk-mitigating provisions such as a clawback policy, stock ownership guidelines or holding period requirements for executives, Equity awards allow for auto-accelerated vesting upon a change-in-control event, and excessive differentials between CEO pay and the pay of other named executive officers at the firm.

Enphase Energy, Inc.	05/17/2023	Management	4	Yes	Advisory Vote to Ratify Named Executive Officers' Compensation	For	For	For	For	A vote FOR this proposal is warranted. The compensation committee demonstrated sufficient responsiveness after last year's failed say-on-pay vote, making several positive changes to the incentive programs and improving certain disclosures in the proxy. Additionally, pay and performance are reasonably aligned for the year under review. Some concern exists that a portion of the PSUs continue to utilize a one-year performance period. However, the positive changes to the PSUs for FY23 strengthen the overall pay-for-performance alignment of the program.

EPR Properties	05/24/2023	Management	9	Yes	Advisory Vote to Ratify Named Executive Officers' Compensation	For	For	For	For	A vote FOR this proposal is warranted. The annual and long-term incentives were primarily based on objective metrics, although some concern is noted about the relative TSR PSUs, which target merely median performance with no disclosed cap on awards in the event of negative TSR. However, PSUs that vested in FY22 were forfeited when goals were unmet. Further, realizable pay outcomes over the most recent three-year period largely mitigate pay-for-performance concerns at this time.

Equifax Inc.	05/04/2023	Management	11	Yes	Advisory Vote to Ratify Named Executive Officers' Compensation	For	Against	Against	Against	A vote AGAINST this proposal is warranted. The committee granted a $25 million retention award to the CEO during the year in review, resulting in his reported pay more than doubling over the prior year. While the majority of the grant is performance-based, concerns are raised regarding goal rigor and disclosure. The relative TSR performance metric overlaps the annual LTI program, and many investors may not view the median TSR target to be particularly rigorous, especially for a special award. Further, $5 million of the retention award has no forward-looking performance criteria. Lastly, concerns are raised as the company continues to provide the CEO with excessive corporate aircraft-related and financial/tax planning perquisites.

Half of the annual incentives are based on objective metrics and the performance equity awards utilize a multi-year measurement period, although there is some concern regarding incomplete goal disclosure for the STI plan and the relative TSR portion of the LTIP, which targets the index.

Euronet Worldwide, Inc.	05/18/2023	Management	4	Yes	Advisory Vote to Ratify Named Executive Officers' Compensation	For	For	For	For	A vote FOR this proposal is warranted, with caution. There is some concern surrounding the LTI structure, as a relatively small portion of total equity awards vest based on a true, multi-year performance period. Additionally, the CEO's equity awards increased amid sustained TSR underperformance. However, equity awards are entirely performance-conditioned and forward-looking goals are disclosed. Additionally, the STI program is entirely based on an objective financial metric with a rigorous target and maximum payouts under the program are substantiated by generally strong financial performance in FY22. Continued close monitoring of the LTI program and equity award magnitude is warranted.

Expedia Group, Inc.	05/31/2023	Management	13	Yes	Advisory Vote to Ratify Named Executive Officers' Compensation	For	Against	Against	Against	A vote AGAINST this proposal is warranted. A lack of at-risk, performance-based pay elements under the compensation program underscores a pay-for-performance misalignment for the year under review. Specifically, the company does not have a formal annual incentive program and NEOs received only fixed cash compensation for FY22. In addition, of the two NEOs that received performance-based equity awards in FY22, only one of those awards comprised a significant portion of the executive's equity mix. Further, the new CFO received a relatively large sign-on equity grant that lacks any performance conditions. These pay decisions are particularly concerning, given that investors increasingly prefer for a meaningful portion of executive incentive pay to be tied pre-set performance goals.

Exxon Mobil Corporation	05/31/2023	Management	14	Yes	Advisory Vote to Ratify Named Executive Officers' Compensation	For	For	For	For	A vote FOR this proposal is warranted, with caution. CEO Woods' compensation again increased year-over-year, as the company delivered record earnings in 2022. However, concerns remain with the structure of the company's incentive plans. Award values continue to rely heavily on the committee's subjective assessment of performance, although the company provides certain considerations for executive pay decisions in the proxy. In addition, equity awards do not carry forward-looking performance vesting criteria, though awards use long time-vesting periods. Nevertheless, for the year in review, these structural concerns were mitigated by strong financial performance and the alignment between pay and performance for the year in review. However, the program's design and the potential for significant committee discretion warrant continued close monitoring, particularly should pay and performance not remain closely aligned.

Fidelity National Information Services, Inc.	05/24/2023	Management	13	Yes	Advisory Vote to Ratify Named Executive Officers' Compensation	For	For	For	For	A vote FOR this proposal is warranted. Following last year's low say-on-pay vote, the company contacted a substantial portion of its shareholders, disclosed specific details of engagement efforts, and made several meaningful changes to the compensation program to address concerns. In addition, annual incentives were entirely determined by pre-set financial metrics and long-term incentives were a majority performance conditioned. While some concern is raised by the FY22 PSUs' annual performance period, this concern is mitigated given the company's shift to a true multi-year performance period in FY23. Further, the newly appointed CEO's target compensation was set below her predecessor's, and below-target pay outcomes under both programs are generally aligned with company's financial and TSR performance. Given the recent CEO transition and significant pay program changes in FY23, continued close monitoring is warranted.

Although a concern is noted, annual incentives are entirely based on financial goals, and long-term incentives are half performance-based and utilize a multi-year measurement period. In addition, relative TSR awards target above-median performance with payouts capped at target for negative absolute results.

Fiserv, Inc.	05/17/2023	Shareholder	12	Yes	Require Independent Board Chairman	Against	Against	For	For	Two major components at the top of every public company are the running of the board, and the executive responsibilities of running of the company's business. There should be a clear division between the head of the company, and the chair of the board. When there is no clear division of independence between the executive and board branches of a company, poor executive and/or board actions often go unchecked to the ultimate detriment of shareholders. A vote FOR this proposal is warranted as it seeks the adoption of a policy that requires the board's chairman to be an independent director.

In connection with the CEO transition, the new CEO and several NEOs received relatively large equity grants resulting in a misalignment between executive pay and company performance, a significant portion of which was in time-vested equity. Furthermore, the long-term incentive awards are based on quarterly and annual performance periods instead of multi-year performance.

FLEETCOR Technologies, Inc.	06/09/2023	Management	13	Yes	Advisory Vote to Ratify Named Executive Officers' Compensation	For	Against	Against	Against	A vote AGAINST this proposal is warranted. The committee demonstrated poor responsiveness to last year's failed say-on-pay vote result, which marked the fourth failed vote result in six years. Further, an unmitigated pay-for-performance misalignment exists for the year in review. The STI and LTI lack disclosure of several quantified target goals, and a significant portion of the STI for non-CEO NEOs is based on somewhat vague and/or qualitative goals. Additionally, while the CEO did not receive equity awards following a front-loaded grant in 2021, other NEOs received majority time-vesting equity after accounting for additional time-vesting stock option awards. Lastly, performance equity utilizes an annual performance period and one LTI metric and performance period overlaps with the STI program.

Fortive Corporation	06/06/2023	Management	10	Yes	Advisory Vote to Ratify Named Executive Officers' Compensation	For	Against	Against	Against	A vote AGAINST this proposal is warranted. Elevated CEO pay amidst lagging long-term returns and structural concerns with respect to the short- and long-term incentive programs underscore a pay-for-performance misalignment for the year under review. Individual performance goals account for a significant portion of annual incentives and disclosure of specific targets and achievements is limited. Further, a provision under the LTI program allowing PSUs tied to relative TSR to be earned at the minimum level despite below-threshold performance has resulted in minimum level payouts for the past two closing performance cycles, despite failure to achieve threshold relative TSR. Lastly, the remainder of PSUs are based on an annually set performance target that overlaps with the STI program.

General Electric Company	05/03/2023	Shareholder	14	Yes	Require Independent Board Chairman	Against	Against	For	For	Two major components at the top of every public company are the running of the board, and the executive responsibilities of running of the company's business. There should be a clear division between the head of the company, and the chair of the board. When there is no clear division of independence between the executive and board branches of a company, poor executive and/or board actions often go unchecked to the ultimate detriment of shareholders. A vote FOR this proposal is warranted as it seeks the adoption of a policy that requires the board's chairman to be an independent director.

The adoption of the resolution would provide shareholders with a better understanding of how the company is managing and overseeing the risks associated with its reliance on gas and the potential impact of the decreasing cost of renewable energy, along with other related risks.

Global Payments Inc.	04/27/2023	Management	12	Yes	Advisory Vote to Ratify Named Executive Officers' Compensation	For	For	For	For	A vote FOR this proposal is warranted, with caution. After last year's say-on-pay proposal failed to receive majority support, the compensation committee demonstrated adequate responsiveness to shareholder concerns. In addition, a pay-for-performance misalignment exists for the year under review, but certain factors have been identified that mitigate the concern. There is some concern surrounding an increase in pay opportunities amidst long-term TSR underperformance, high maximum FY22 PSU opportunities and forward-looking LT1 disclosure. However, annual incentives were tied to rigorous financial performance metrics and closing-cycle PSUs vested below target due to relative TSR underperformance. Changes to the long-term incentive program in FY23 will significantly lower the maximum payout opportunity for PSUs, and closing-cycle PSU disclosure improved, though investors may expect additional goal disclosure improvement. Continued monitoring of the pay program is warranted given increasing pay opportunities, disclosure considerations, and forward-looking pay program changes.

Annual and long-term incentives are primarily performance-based, with performance awards utilizing a multi-year performance period and a payout cap on TSR PSUs for absolute negative results. Honeywell International Inc.	05/19/2023	Management	13	Yes	Advisory Vote to Ratify Named Executive Officers' Compensation	For	For	For	For	A vote FOR this proposal is warranted. The compensation committee was sufficiently responsive to last year's low say-on-pay vote, engaging with shareholders and disclosing their feedback as well as making a commitment not to repeat the action investors found problematic. Further, sufficient positive factors were found to mitigate the pay-for-performance misalignment for the year in review. CEO pay was elevated partially due to the previous decision to adjust in-progress equity awards, but the committee limited the vesting of the closing cycle award, as promised. Annual incentives were primarily based on financial performance and long-term incentives were targeted to be half performance-based. The committee also returned to a three-year measurement period for performance equity.

Honeywell International Inc.	05/19/2023	Shareholder	15	Yes	Require Independent Board Chair	Against	For	For	For	Two major components at the top of every public company are the running of the board, and the executive responsibilities of running of the company's business. There should be a clear division between the head of the company, and the chair of the board. When there is no clear division of independence between the executive and board branches of a company, poor executive and/or board actions often go unchecked to the ultimate detriment of shareholders. A vote FOR this proposal is warranted as it seeks the adoption of a policy that requires the board's chairman to be an independent director.

Following the prior year's relatively low say-on-pay vote and subsequent engagement with shareholders, the company entered into a new letter agreement with CEO Plant that will align his annual cash and equity awards to the schedule of other NEOs starting in FY23 and removes an entitlement to excessive change-in-control severance payments. Additionally, beginning in 2023 the company will revert performance-based equity grants to be measured over a three-year period rather than the average of three one-year periods. While these changes are reflective of shareholder feedback, Plant's letter agreement also continues to provide sizeable incentive award opportunities. However, the merger consideration offers a premium, the deal values IAA at a premium to its unaffected EBITDA multiple, and there does not appear to be an actionable, preferable, strategic alternative, such that cautionary support FOR the merger is warranted.

There should be a clear division between the head of the company, and the chair of the board. When there is no clear division of independence between the executive and board branches of a company, poor executive and/or board actions often go unchecked to the ultimate detriment of shareholders. A vote FOR this proposal is warranted as it seeks the adoption of a policy that requires the board's chairman to be an independent director.

Significant concerns are raised regarding the special, one-time stock options award made to the CEO. Specifically, the special awards do not carry performance vesting criteria, and these concerns are magnified by the size of the CEO's award, valued by the company at $12.5 million. Moreover, although the annual LTI is primarily linked to multi-year performance goals, the proxy does not disclose forward-looking EPS targets for the performance shares granted during the year under review, which prevents investors from fully assessing goal rigor.

Ingersoll Rand Inc.	06/15/2023	Management	12	Yes	Advisory Vote to Ratify Named Executive Officers' Compensation	For	Against	Against	Against	A vote AGAINST this proposal is warranted. While annual incentives were based on financial performance, specific targets and actual quantified results were not disclosed, hindering investors' ability to analyze goal rigor. Further, for FY22, the committee used discretion to increase payouts, including to the CEO. More concerning however, is a special grant made to CEO Reynal, with limited rationale. While the award is contingent upon rigorous performance goals, the magnitude is outsized and grant values disclosed in proxy pay tables do not yet include additional stock options that were granted in early 2023. The award also appears to be made in addition to regular annual grants, as the CEO also received an annual equity award in FY22.

There should be a clear division between the head of the company, and the chair of the board. When there is no clear division of independence between the executive and board branches of a company, poor executive and/or board actions often go unchecked to the ultimate detriment of shareholders. A vote FOR this proposal is warranted as it seeks the adoption of a policy that requires the board's chairman to be an independent director.

Invesco Ltd.	05/25/2023	Management	13	Yes	Advisory Vote to Ratify Named Executive Officers' Compensation	For	For	For	For	There is some concern regarding the annual incentive award determination process, which incorporates a significant degree of discretion, and the lack of certain key disclosures, most notably threshold and maximum financial goals. However, these concerns have not contributed to a quantitative pay-for-performance misalignment for the year in review and the decrease in CEO performance year pay is directionally aligned with generally weaker company performance in FY22. Additionally, the majority of long-term incentives are based on clearly-disclosed multi-year goals, the LTI's relative TSR metric targets outperformance and performance shares are capped at target if absolute TSR is negative. On balance, a cautionary vote FOR this proposal is warranted. Continued close monitoring of the incentive determination structure and pay outcomes is warranted, particularly given the recently announced CEO transition.

Invitation Homes, Inc.	05/17/2023	Management	12	Yes	Advisory Vote to Ratify Named Executive Officers' Compensation	For	Against	Against	Against	A vote AGAINST this proposal is warranted. A pay-for-performance misalignment is driven by the value of the CEO's "outperformance" equity award, which the company grants periodically, and which is supplemental to his regular annual LTI awards. Although the award is based on multi-year TSR goals, a "lock-in" feature allows at least a portion of the award to be earned at two different measurement dates, reducing the rigor of the award. Moreover, the FY22 outperformance award was granted one day after the end of the measurement period for his FY19 outperformance award, raising concerns over the use of frequent non-annual equity awards to boost pay opportunities.

Iron Mountain Incorporated	05/09/2023	Management	11	Yes	Advisory Vote to Ratify Named Executive Officers' Compensation	For	For	For	For	There are some concerns with the LTI program. Operational PSUs under the core plan utilize annual measurement periods and there is a second vesting route which provides for exceedingly high vesting opportunities. Additionally, the relative TSR metric targets median and forward-looking operational PSU goals are not disclosed. However, pay and performance are reasonably aligned for the year in review. Additionally, STI awards are predominantly based on pre-set goals, and the large majority of LTI awards are performance-conditioned. Further PSUs include a vesting cap if absolute TSR is negative. On balance, a vote FOR this proposal is warranted, with caution. Continued close monitoring of the LTI program structure, disclosure, and payouts is warranted.

JBG SMITH Properties	05/04/2023	Management	11	Yes	Advisory Vote to Ratify Named Executive Officers' Compensation	For	For	For	For	The Compensation Committee demonstrated adequate responsiveness to shareholder concerns following last year's low say-on-pay vote result. The company engaged with investors following the annual meeting, specific shareholder feedback is disclosed, and changes to the compensation program, including changes to the STI program detailed in a supplemental filing, appear to address shareholder concerns. There are some pay program concerns which warrant continued close monitoring. Specifically, the structure of the STI program makes it difficult to assess goal rigor, and the rigor of appreciation-based LTIP units is questionable over the ten-year term of the award, particularly given that the structure replaces a relative TSR metric which targeted outperformance. Nevertheless, the STI is predominantly based on quantified goals, and the supplemental filing details some disclosure and structural improvements for the FY23 STI program (though this will be analyzed next year in the context of FY23 pay decisions). Further, half of LTI awards are performance-conditioned, and closing cycle equity awards vested below target, in line with company performance, mitigating pay-for-performance concerns. Accordingly, a vote FOR this proposal is warranted, with caution. Given certain STI and LTI concerns noted above and forward-looking pay program changes, continued close monitoring is warranted.

Jefferies Financial Group Inc.	03/29/2023	Management	13	Yes	Advisory Vote to Ratify Named Executive Officers' Compensation	For	Against	Against	Against	The company demonstrated sufficient responsiveness to last year's low support for this proposal by disclosing engagement efforts, specific feedback from shareholders, and certain changes that appear to address shareholders' expressed concerns. However, a vote AGAINST this proposal is warranted. There is an unmitigated pay-for-performance misalignment. The company's framework for determining total incentive pay incorporates a significant degree of committee discretion, lacks key disclosures, and provides for outsized pay opportunities for the CEO and president. The president and CEO each received $25.0 million retention equity awards that were entirely in the form of time-based shares. Furthermore, the company provided an inordinate amount of personal use of corporate aircraft and automobile perquisites to the CEO.

In addition, shareholders may have expected more robust disclosure and reconciliation in the proxy in order to better understand how these specific expenses impacted pay for its top executives. Kilroy Realty Corporation	05/24/2023	Management	9	Yes	Advisory Vote to Ratify Named Executive Officers' Compensation	For	Against	Against	Against	Following low support for last year's say-on-pay vote, the committee demonstrated adequate responsiveness to shareholder concerns by committing to frame future severance arrangements to align with peer practices. Nevertheless, an AGAINST vote is warranted as there is an unmitigated pay-for-performance misalignment underscored by significant concerns regarding the magnitude of the CEO's pay opportunities amid sustained underperformance, in addition to disclosure and rigor concerns. CEO Kilroy's relatively high base salary and target annual incentive contributed to sizable annual incentive award earned whereas the program lacks key disclosures, such as per-metric weightings and threshold/maximum goals, and individual payouts appear to be ultimately based on committee discretion. Moreover, performance equity awards are based on a primary metric that utilizes on a one-year performance period. Lastly, concerns are raised with respect to the sizable automobile-related and life insurance-related perquisites provided to the CEO.

Laboratory Corporation of America Holdings	05/11/2023	Shareholder	15	Yes	Require Independent Board Chair	Against	Against	For	For	Two major components at the top of every public company are the running of the board, and the executive responsibilities of running of the company's business. There should be a clear division between the head of the company, and the chair of the board. When there is no clear division of independence between the executive and board branches of a company, poor executive and/or board actions often go unchecked to the ultimate detriment of shareholders. A vote FOR this proposal is warranted as it seeks the adoption of a policy that requires the board's chairman to be an independent director.

Las Vegas Sands Corp.	05/11/2023	Management	10	Yes	Advisory Vote to Ratify Named Executive Officers' Compensation	For	Against	Against	Against	Following low say-on-pay support last year, the board did not make any meaningful changes to address shareholders' expressed concerns. Moreover, there are persistent pay structure concerns that underscore a pay-for-performance misalignment. The CEO's base salary and target STI opportunity are outsized, and recent changes to the STI program reduce the importance of objective financial metrics. The regular LTI awards are based on the same short-term goals as the STI program, and the CEO's equity grant value was relatively large. There are also ongoing concerns regarding pay benchmarking practices, perquisites, and gross-ups. Several of the above concerns persist despite recent negative shareholder feedback on those issues. In light of these issues, a vote AGAINST this proposal is warranted. Shareholders are further advised to "withhold" votes from incumbent board members (see Item 1).

Lennar Corporation	04/12/2023	Management	11	Yes	Advisory Vote to Ratify Named Executive Officers' Compensation	For	For	Against	Against	A vote AGAINST the proposal is warranted. The company utilizes a co-CEO structure in addition to employing an Executive Chairman, whose total target pay opportunity is set above the pay of both CEOs. The concerns with this structure, which pays three executives at a CEO level, are further exacerbated by the annual bonus program, where payouts are not capped. The uncapped payouts in FY21 to each executive led to payouts at nearly double the total pay of peer CEOs, and year-over-year pay increases of over 50 percent. Although several positive changes were made to the incentive programs, shareholders may have expected a more significant reduction in total pay for its three highly paid executives.

Lincoln National Corporation	05/25/2023	Management	13	Yes	Advisory Vote to Ratify Named Executive Officers' Compensation	For	For	For	For	A vote FOR this proposal is warranted, with caution. Concerns are raised regarding the rigor of FY22 STI and LTI goal setting, as well as the company's retention award grant practices: multiple NEOs received retention awards, with one executive receiving multiple such awards in one year. However, rigor concerns in the annual-cycle LTI program appear to be fully addressed by changes for FY23, annual incentives were entirely based on pre-set objective metrics, and both annual and long-term incentives paid out below target in line with company performance. Based on these factors, in particular recent improvements to pay quantum and structure for the new CEO, the quantitative pay-for-performance misalignment is mitigated. Moreover, as disclosed in an 8-K, the company recently eliminated a problematic good reason definition that entitled the new CEO to severance upon her resignation for any reason following a change-in-control. Continued monitoring of goal rigor and equity award practices is warranted.

Lincoln National Corporation	05/25/2023	Shareholder	16	Yes	Require Independent Board Chair	Against	For	For	For	Two major components at the top of every public company are the running of the board, and the executive responsibilities of running of the company's business. When there is no clear division of independence between the executive and board branches of a company, poor executive and/or board actions often go unchecked to the ultimate detriment of shareholders. A vote FOR this proposal is warranted as it seeks the adoption of a policy that requires the board's chairman to be an independent director.

Live Nation Entertainment, Inc.	06/09/2023	Management	12	Yes	Advisory Vote to Ratify Named Executive Officers' Compensation	For	Against	Against	Against	A vote AGAINST the proposal is warranted. The annual bonus program was based entirely on a financial metric, though a concern is noted regarding the relatively high base salary and target bonus opportunity for the CEO. Though the LTI grant was entirely in performance equity, the metric was identical to the STI, including the performance period, though this concern is partially mitigated by the relatively reasonable grant value. Of significant concern, however, are the awards made in recognition of entering into new employment agreements with the company by the CEO and one NEO, who each received a discretionary cash bonus of $6 million. On top of that, each received a large one-time equity grant with a value multiple times larger than the total CEO pay for the company's peer group. A large portion of each grant is time-based and the proxy lacks clear disclosure regarding the rationale for the size of the awards and other details necessary to assess them. Additionally, stock price goals do not require sustained performance above the target in order to vest, allowing the award to vest for any 60 nonconsecutive days the closing price exceeds the target over a five-and-a-half year period. The current structure could reward these executives for short-term or merely temporary increases in stock price. A vote AGAINST the proposal is further warranted because: * The company provided excessive personal aircraft use, personal/home security, and automobile-related perquisites to the CEO; * The total amount of perquisite compensation reported for the CEO is excessive; and * The company lacks risk-mitigating provisions such as a clawback policy, stock ownership guidelines, or holding period requirements for executives.

There should be a clear division between the head of the company, and the chair of the board. When there is no clear division of independence between the executive and board branches of a company, poor executive and/or board actions often go unchecked to the ultimate detriment of shareholders. A vote FOR this proposal is warranted as it seeks the adoption of a policy that requires the board's chairman to be an independent director.

Lyft, Inc.	06/15/2023	Management	5	Yes	Advisory Vote to Ratify Named Executive Officers' Compensation	For	Against	Against	Against	A vote AGAINST this proposal is warranted. Equity awards to all NEOs were majority time-vesting, with only the CEO and president receiving small PSU grants. Further, the portion of the CEO's equity awarded as performance units declined year-over-year. In addition, as the company does not maintain an annual incentive program, several of the NEOs do not have any strongly performance-based compensation. Lastly, the new CFO received a sizable time-vesting grant upon her hire and the company does not clearly disclose the breakdown between make-whole and inducement compensation.

M&T Bank Corporation	04/18/2023	Management	18	Yes	Advisory Vote to Ratify Named Executive Officers' Compensation	For	For	For	For	A vote FOR this proposal is warranted, with caution. There is some concern regarding the discretionary nature of the incentive determination process, and the lack of key disclosures. Additionally, the committee lowered the weighting of multi-year performance equity under the LTI program and certain LTI goals are not disclosed. However, these issues have not resulted in a quantitative pay-for-performance misalignment for the year in review. Additionally, most of the metrics assessed for determining incentives were consistent and the largest component of CEO pay consists of performance-conditioned equity. Continued close monitoring of the incentive program structure is warranted. A quantitative pay-for-performance misalignment going forward may be met with increased scrutiny of pay program structure and disclosure.

Marsh & McLennan Companies, Inc.	05/18/2023	Management	15	Yes	Advisory Vote to Ratify Named Executive Officers' Compensation	For	Against	Against	Against	A qualitative review of incentive pay programs reveals mostly positive features, though certain aspects of disclosure could be improved. However, there are significant concerns regarding the committee's decision to amend the CEO's outstanding PSU awards in connection with his announced retirement. This discretionary decision provides more favorable vesting treatment of his outstanding awards and resulted in an incremental value disclosure of more than $7 million and total CEO pay that is outsized at more than $32 million. Recent enhancements to retirement benefits are considered a problematic practice and the committee has not disclosed a compelling rationale. Furthermore, concerns are raised as the company provided a large automobile perquisite to former CEO Glaser. In light of these concerns, a vote AGAINST this proposal is warranted.

Annual incentives appear to incorporate significant committee discretion, with no disclosure of the specific performance targets, weights, nor actual performance used to determine bonus payouts. The long-term incentive program has similar disclosure issues, with no disclosure of forward-looking performance targets for either financial metric. Further, closing cycle awards only provide the performance target and actual performance, but not threshold and maximum. These disclosure issues are particularly concerning for the year in review given above-target earnouts and the identified pay-for-performance misalignment.

Match Group, Inc.	06/22/2023	Management	4	Yes	Advisory Vote to Ratify Named Executive Officers' Compensation	For	Against	Against	Against	A vote AGAINST this proposal is warranted. The company made mid-cycle changes to previously granted PSUs, changing the benchmark used for the awards. Though concerns are noted in the annual pay program, including a fully discretionary annual bonus and a minor modification to in-flight performance equity awards, these are mitigated for the year in review, as pay and performance are reasonably aligned. However, significant concern is noted regarding the CFO's employment agreement amendment, which increased his compensation for FY22 by providing for retention equity awards and, more notably, accelerated vesting of all time-vested equity awards, a problematic pay practice that undermines the retentive aspect of LTI awards. Additionally, concerns remain regarding the entirely discretionary bonus payouts under the annual incentive program.

There should be a clear division between the head of the company, and the chair of the board. Mondelez International, Inc.	05/17/2023	Shareholder	13	Yes	Require Independent Board Chair	Against	Against	For	For	Two major components at the top of every public company are the running of the board, and the executive responsibilities of running of the company's business. There should be a clear division between the head of the company, and the chair of the board. When there is no clear division of independence between the executive and board branches of a company, poor executive and/or board actions often go unchecked to the ultimate detriment of shareholders. A vote FOR this proposal is warranted as it seeks the adoption of a policy that requires the board's chairman to be an independent director.

Monolithic Power Systems, Inc.	06/15/2023	Management	4	Yes	Advisory Vote to Ratify Named Executive Officers' Compensation	For	Against	Against	Against	A vote AGAINST the proposal is warranted. CEO pay as valued by Public Fund Advisory Services increased by more than 33 percent year-over-year, and was nearly three times the median CEO pay in the company-selected peer group. The company also utilizes a high maximum opportunity in the short- and long-term programs. With the annual bonus earned at maximum in FY22, the CEO received a payout at four times his target bonus opportunity. In addition, the company amended FY22 equity awards, switching to stock price goals with only limited rationale explaining why the original goals were no longer appropriate. While the new goals require an increase in stock price, they were awarded after a rather steep decline in price. Lastly, other NEO pay is also relatively high, as compared to the median peer CEO.

Morgan Stanley	05/19/2023	Management	16	Yes	Advisory Vote to Ratify Named Executive Officers' Compensation	For	For	For	For	A vote FOR this proposal is warranted, with caution. There is some continuing concern regarding the impact of discretion in determining NEO incentive pay (which includes cash bonuses), and the lack of key disclosures, such as specific target and maximum award opportunities, pre-set target goals, and individual metric weightings. Additionally, the disclosed pay levels for the CEO's broad target total pay range increased significantly, which warrants continued monitoring. However, there are mitigating factors identified. In particular, CEO pay and company performance are reasonably aligned. Additionally, financial metrics considered under the performance assessment were generally consistent and the decrease in performance-year incentive pay is directionally aligned with somewhat weaker company performance year-over-year. Further, the large majority of equity awards are based on clearly-disclosed multi-year goals, and the relative metric now targets outperformance. Continued close monitoring of pay program structure and outcomes is warranted. A quantitative pay-for-performance misalignment going forward may be met with increased scrutiny of the incentive program structure in particular.

Morgan Stanley	05/19/2023	Shareholder	19	Yes	Adopt Time-Bound Policy to Phase Out Underwriting and Lending for New Fossil Fuel Development	Against	Against	For	For	A vote FOR this proposal is warranted, as it would help shareholders better evaluate the company's management of climate risks from its lending and underwriting activities. Additionally, shareholders would benefit from a stronger alignment between the company's stated goals, its fossil fuel policy, and its actions regarding corporate responsibility.

Nasdaq, Inc.	06/21/2023	Shareholder	15	Yes	Require Independent Board Chair	Against	Against	For	For	Two major components at the top of every public company are the running of the board, and the executive responsibilities of running of the company's business. There should be a clear division between the head of the company, and the chair of the board. When there is no clear division of independence between the executive and board branches of a company, poor executive and/or board actions often go unchecked to the ultimate detriment of shareholders. A vote FOR this proposal is warranted as it seeks the adoption of a policy that requires the board's chairman to be an independent director.

Netflix, Inc.	06/01/2023	Management	6	Yes	Advisory Vote to Ratify Named Executive Officers' Compensation	For	Against	Against	Against	Following a failed say-on-pay vote result, the company disclosed its engagement efforts with shareholders, noted shareholder feedback, and made substantive changes to the pay program. This indicates sufficient responsiveness by the compensation committee. Nevertheless, there are ongoing concerns regarding the pay structure. Though improvements were made to ensure that base salaries for co-CEOs remain at a reasonable level, salaries for other NEOs may still be exceedingly large depending on their selected allocation of payment. In addition, equity awards, which remain a significant portion of executive pay, continue to lack pre-set performance vesting criteria, and the introduction of annual bonuses only covers the co-CEOs. Concerns are also raised with respect to the single trigger change-in-control provision embedded in legacy agreements, the excessive total amount of perquisite compensation reported for the CEOs including an inordinate amount of personal use of corporate aircraft and security-related perquisites, and the company's lack of risk mitigating provisions. In light of these concerns, a vote AGAINST this proposal is warranted.

Norwegian Cruise Line Holdings Ltd.	06/15/2023	Management	4	Yes	Advisory Vote to Ratify Named Executive Officers' Compensation	For	For	For	For	A vote FOR this proposal is warranted, with caution. Following consecutive years of failed say-on-pay votes, the committee was adequately responsive to shareholders, as the company implemented several positive changes to address pay magnitude and structural concerns. Specifically, pay for the incoming CEO in FY23 is set to be approximately 50 percent below the current CEO's pay. In addition, incentive programs will be more heavily weighted on objective financial metrics, with an adjusted EPS metric in the LTI requiring outperformance. Further, other NEOs' LTI shifted to an equal mix of PSUs and RSUs in FY22, and PSUs will be based on a three-year performance period. While some concerns are raised surrounding the outgoing CEO's elevated pay and award structure, these concerns are somewhat mitigated by the upcoming changes noted above. In addition, some investors may question the committee's decision to grant certain one-time retention awards in FY22. Although the improvements mitigate certain concerns surrounding overall pay magnitude and program structure for the year in review, investors are advised to continue monitoring the company's pay decisions going forward.

NVR, Inc.	05/02/2023	Management	12	Yes	Advisory Vote to Ratify Named Executive Officers' Compensation	For	Against	Against	Against	A vote AGAINST this proposal is warranted. The former CEO and now current executive chairman received a significant front-loaded option grant intended to cover four years of equity awards. The magnitude of the executive chair grant is of particular concern as it alone is more than double total pay of the new CEO, who also received a front-loaded option grant, and when annualized is greater than total CEO pay at similar peer companies, which can be costly to shareholders in terms of overall compensation expense. Further, shareholders generally expect that a large grant such as this be primarily based on performance criteria.

O'Reilly Automotive, Inc.	05/18/2023	Shareholder	14	Yes	Require Independent Board Chair	Against	For	For	For	Two major components at the top of every public company are the running of the board, and the executive responsibilities of running of the company's business. There should be a clear division between the head of the company, and the chair of the board. When there is no clear division of independence between the executive and board branches of a company, poor executive and/or board actions often go unchecked to the ultimate detriment of shareholders. A vote FOR this proposal is warranted as it seeks the adoption of a policy that requires the board's chairman to be an independent director.

Occidental Petroleum Corporation	05/05/2023	Management	12	Yes	Advisory Vote to Ratify Named Executive Officers' Compensation	For	For	For	For	A vote FOR this proposal is warranted as pay and performance are reasonably aligned at this time. Above-target payouts on the 2022 annual incentive and closing-cycle equity awards are directionally aligned with recent financial and TSR performance, and the increases in salary and STI and LTI targets represent a return to near pre-COVID levels. However, certain concerns with disclosure and goal rigor warrant continued monitoring.

Occidental Petroleum Corporation	05/05/2023	Shareholder	14	Yes	Require Independent Board Chair	Against	Against	For	For	Two major components at the top of every public company are the running of the board, and the executive responsibilities of running of the company's business. There should be a clear division between the head of the company, and the chair of the board. When there is no clear division of independence between the executive and board branches of a company, poor executive and/or board actions often go unchecked to the ultimate detriment of shareholders. A vote FOR this proposal is warranted as it seeks the adoption of a policy that requires the board's chairman to be an independent director.

Okta, Inc.	06/22/2023	Management	5	Yes	Advisory Vote to Ratify Named Executive Officers' Compensation	For	For	For	For	Following low say-on-pay support last year, the company engaged with shareholders, disclosed the feedback response, and took responsive actions. The introduction of performance equity meaningfully improves the incentive pay structure. It is also positive that the STIP was based entirely on financial metrics, and negative discretion was applied to payouts. In light of these factors, a vote FOR this proposal is warranted. The unusual design of the new PSU program warrants continued monitoring, and some shareholders may prefer to see a program that is completely based on a multi-year measurement period.

PepsiCo, Inc.	05/03/2023	Shareholder	19	Yes	Require Independent Board Chair	Against	Against	For	For	Two major components at the top of every public company are the running of the board, and the executive responsibilities of running of the company's business. There should be a clear division between the head of the company, and the chair of the board. When there is no clear division of independence between the executive and board branches of a company, poor executive and/or board actions often go unchecked to the ultimate detriment of shareholders. A vote FOR this proposal is warranted as it seeks the adoption of a policy that requires the board's chairman to be an independent director.

The majority of the regular-cycle equity awards were performance-conditioned, and annual incentives were based primarily on objective financial metrics with target goals that appear to be rigorous. In addition, the CEO's realizable pay shows directional alignment with the company's long-term stock price performance, and the company improved disclosure of performance targets and results under the long-term incentive program. While some concerns are raised surround the use of an overlapping metric, which is measured over a one-year performance period, earned PSUs are based on the average of the vesting for each year in the three-year performance period, mitigating some of the concerns surrounding this structure.

Concerns exist regarding the disclosure of the STI and LTI programs. Pfizer Inc.	04/27/2023	Shareholder	17	Yes	Require Independent Board Chair	Against	Against	For	For	Two major components at the top of every public company are the running of the board, and the executive responsibilities of running of the company's business. There should be a clear division between the head of the company, and the chair of the board. When there is no clear division of independence between the executive and board branches of a company, poor executive and/or board actions often go unchecked to the ultimate detriment of shareholders. A vote FOR this proposal is warranted as it seeks the adoption of a policy that requires the board's chairman to be an independent director.

PG&E Corporation	05/18/2023	Management	7	Yes	Advisory Vote to Ratify Named Executive Officers' Compensation	For	Against	Against	Against	The STI and LTI programs utilize nineteen metrics altogether, which raises concerns around pay program complexity and the ability to incentivize for specific performance. The proxy lacks disclosures on the assessments related to the new STI individual performance modifier. With respect to LTI awards, it is positive that the entirety of NEOs' LTI was performance-conditioned with multi-year goals. However, the targeting of median performance for the relative TSR metric is not considered rigorous and the proxy does not disclose a vesting cap in the event of negative absolute TSR. Moreover, the company made mid-cycle goal changes to 2021 LTI awards, the rationale for which is not considered compelling. In light of these concerns, a vote AGAINST this proposal is warranted.

Pinnacle West Capital Corporation	05/17/2023	Shareholder	16	Yes	Require Independent Board Chair	Against	Against	For	For	Two major components at the top of every public company are the running of the board, and the executive responsibilities of running of the company's business. There should be a clear division between the head of the company, and the chair of the board. When there is no clear division of independence between the executive and board branches of a company, poor executive and/or board actions often go unchecked to the ultimate detriment of shareholders. A vote FOR this proposal is warranted as it seeks the adoption of a policy that requires the board's chairman to be an independent director.

The CEO received new-hire equity awards that represented over six times the median total pay of company-selected peer CEOs, based on the company's valuation. Given the magnitude of the awards, pay-for-performance concerns are heightened. The company relied only on time-based awards for the equity awards. Shareholders prefer for new-hire awards to predominantly consist of performance-conditioned equity and utilize a multi-year performance period with robust disclosure of goal targets. Further, the proxy does not indicate that the awards are intended to cover multiple years of pay. Additionally, a new NEO received a sizable, entirely time-based, RSU award.

Playtika Holding Corp.	06/08/2023	Management	8	Yes	Advisory Vote to Ratify Named Executive Officers' Compensation	For	Against	Against	Against	A vote AGAINST this proposal is warranted. CEO total pay remains oversized compared to peers and is not substantiated by superior performance. Although the annual incentive program is based on a pre-set financial metric, the CEO's annual target cash opportunity is relatively high, and the NEOs continued to receive significant payouts under the retention bonus plan, a portion of which appears guaranteed. Additionally, while the long-term incentives were entirely based on performance, the PSUs utilize annual performance periods and goals for all four performance periods were lowered, with no compelling rationale provided. Additionally, the decision to offer a non-shareholder approved exchange program that allows NEOs to exchange underwater stock options for RSUs is considered problematic. Lastly, concerns are also raised with respect to the excise tax gross-up payment and single-trigger equity vesting acceleration in the event of a change in control, the excessive security-related perquisite provided to the CEO, and the tax gross-ups on certain executives' perquisites.

Prologis, Inc.	05/04/2023	Management	12	Yes	Advisory Vote to Ratify Named Executive Officers' Compensation	For	Against	Against	Against	A vote AGAINST this proposal is warranted. Although annual and long-term incentives are substantially performance-based, significant concerns remain with the overall complexity of the long-term incentive programs, the skyrocketing value of outperformance awards for the CEO and other NEOs, and the rigor of LTI and POP goals. In addition to resulting in a large jump in total performance year pay in FY22, the multiple long-term incentive vehicles and issues surrounding grant timing make it difficult for investors to determine and accurately compare pay year-over-year. Further, investors may not consider relative LTI and POP goals set at one percentage point above the index to be particularly rigorous. Given these concerns, the quantitative pay-for-performance misalignment for the year under review is not mitigated.

There should be a clear division between the head of the company, and the chair of the board. When there is no clear division of independence between the executive and board branches of a company, poor executive and/or board actions often go unchecked to the ultimate detriment of shareholders. In addition, the majority of long-term incentives, once granted, are earned based on clearly disclosed multi-year goals, and the increase in CEO performance year pay is directionally aligned with TSR outperformance and improved financial performance.
